++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Windy in the north tonight.

This Evening and Tonight:
Cloud and outbreaks of rain over parts of England and Wales become confined to the far southeast of England by dawn. Clear spells follow, but also some showers, mainly in the north where showers wintry. Windy in the far north.

Thursday:
Dry and bright for many. Wintry showers in the far north though, and also a few showers in some North Sea and Irish Sea coastal areas. Breezy and feeling cold.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Rain will clear on Friday, severe-gales and wintry-showers following by Saturday. Snow possible almost anywhere, but only settling on hills. Frosty nights. Fine start Sunday, wet later in the west.
